"Zweifel" (1897)

"After a slow start, things went off like clockwork. At first we went out to dinner and the movies or theater and didn't go to bed. Finally we went to bed. We then had dinner out and went to bed. Then we mostly went to bed, not bothering with dinner at all, and talked of getting engaged. Yes, engaged. We had this horrible compulsion to be Proper."—Sue Kaufman, Diary of a Mad Housewife (1967)
